Headline:
Cloudy and murky, with patchy rain today. Feeling cold.

Today:
Low cloud and early freezing fog patches may be slow to clear during the morning. However, outbreaks of patchy rain will slowly edge southwards through the afternoon. Further showers following on behind, mainly in coastal districts later. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:
Any showers confined to coastal areas overnight, with perhaps the odd shower penetrating inland, perhaps turning wintry. Otherwise, dry with clear spells. Frosty inland, with icy patches forming. Cold. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Saturday:
After a cold and frosty start, it will be largely dry with sunny spells. Chance of some coastal showers, these may penetrate further inland, where wintry on hills. Staying cold. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Staying cold, with a mixture of rain, sleet and snow throughout the period. Snow mainly confined to hills, but not exclusively. Ice risk throughout. Windier, with coastal gales from Monday.
